To Whom it May Concern,

I am writing on behalf of the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops' Department of Migration and Refugee Services (USCCB/MRS). It is with great enthusiasm that we extend our support for The Foundation United's mission to develop culturally sensitive curriculum focused on raising awareness on the evil of human trafficking. We are currently working with them to develop educational resources for this purpose and look forward to doing more together in this regard.

We are excited about this venture because our organizations share a common goal: to eliminate human trafficking and create a world where the rights and dignity of all individuals are respected. As organizations dedicated to combating this scourge, we understand the complexities and challenges of this effort. We firmly believe that by working collaboratively we can multiply the positive impact of our individual efforts. By joining forces and pooling our resources we can significantly enhance our capabilities in education, awareness raising, increase in identification, prevention, and assisting victims and survivors of human trafficking. For this reason, we are happy to partner with The Foundation United and would urge your organization to explore ways in which you might do the same.

The Foundation United's focus on anti-trafficking education not only raises awareness of this problem, but also equips individuals with the knowledge to make informed decisions and take concrete actions when they encounter potential human trafficking situations in their communities. They do this in a way that is culturally sensitive and responsive to the specific needs of individual communities that they are trying to educate. Such a strategy is essential for making a real impact in the battle against human trafficking.

We commend The Foundation United for its foresight and commitment to addressing human trafficking through education and do not hesitate to commend them to your organization.

Sincerely,

William Canny
